PRODUCT PHOTOGRAPHY

Your mother was right! First impressions are everything. Right or wrong, the quality of your images greatly influences a customer's perception of your product or service. You may produce the world's best "widgets", but if you market them using low quality photographs the world will assume your products are of low quality as well. Don't make that mistake.

While high quality marketing methods may be out of your budget, high quality photographs are not. Our affordable pricing makes certain that the most important part of your advertising campaigns (ie: your product photos) are well within your reach. Now everyone can afford professional photographs by a skilled photographer.

Here at Teesside Photography, we know that an important part of creating a successful photograph of your product involves capturing the actual image, conveying subtleties and textures in the product's materials, and maintaining colour fidelity. Our photos are taken using carefully chosen colour balanced filters, selective soft or firm lighting and digital high resolution capture up to 36.3 mega pixels.

We will discuss and agree your requirements beforehand, making certain that we understand your needs. We can then undertake macro photography in studio conditions or on site and provide images in electronic and printed form, depending on your needs.
